

Bible Puzzle

Revised by
Paul Welk

The Bible is a collection of 66 books, which are regarded and respected by most people as a direct record of revelation from God. Some of these books are almost 4,000 years old. But if God revealed His Word thousands of years ago, it did not change, for God did not change His mind: His Word is still true and applies today as it did then. Join the Club, read and pay attention to God's Word.

The Bible has two Sections, the Old and the New Testament. In the following paragraph you find hidden all the 39 Books of the Old and all the 27 Books of the New Testament. For those, who think that they know the Bible, let's see if you can find the names of all 66 books:

This is a most remarkable puzzle. Many a Joe labored over it: One, while fixing a hose, another fishing from his johnboat, singing the Song of Solomon for Miss Ecclesiastes. At first she thought the puzzle would not interest her, but then with a smile on her lips, alms in her hand, she gave it to the beggar, named Nehemiah. Now she judges the job of solving this puzzle as inspiring, so she brews a luke-warm cup of tea - tart and formic. Ahead will be Judean and Grecian names that are easy to spot, like Leviticus, Ezra, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ephesians, Philippians and Colossians. That's a fact: Some people will find themselves, like Jonah in a jam, especially for not reading their Bible, or not knowing how to spell, like un-scientific Joshua who put "pewter on" instead of deuteron. O my dear! What a job! A "dia-head" is not the correct spelling for dead head. "Easy Kyle" is not Ezekiel. Habakkuk is not Haggai. Zephaniah is not Zechariah. And not all living that drink milk in our galaxy are Galatians. Only a corinthian smart-alecky golfer-pro verbs un-mentionable expletives and walks away with great lamentations. Truthfully, from answers we get, we admit, it usually takes a scholar, or a nut to see them at the worst. Some think, "Something in our genes is responsible for all our difficulties." At a fundraiser, the "Alpha Delta Phi" lemonade booth featured this puzzle and set a new record. The local paper, "The Chronicle" surveyed 200 people, and reported that this puzzle was very difficult. One revelation may help: Books like 1st 2nd Thessalonians, 1st 2nd Samuel and others have sequels with numbers. Also keep in mind that spelling but not punctuation and spacing in all books are normal. A chipper attitude will also help to compete really well. Finally, there is no need for a mad exodus. As Dani, electricians and Hanna humbly put it, "Bibles are lurking somewhere in every home. If you can't find them, please ask Timothy [3:16]."

Stop!

Do not read beyond this point.

Peek only if you absolutely must.

Revised Bible Puzzle Answers:

This is a most remarkable puzzle. Many a Joe labored over it: One, while fixing a hose, another fishing from his johnboat, singing the Song of Solomon for Miss Ecclesiastes. At first she thought the puzzle would not interest her, but then with a smile on her lips, alms in her hand, she gave it to the beggar, named Nehemiah. Now she judges the job of solving this puzzle as inspiring, so she brews a luke-warm cup of tea - tart and formic. Ahead will be some Judean and Grecian names that are easy to spot, like Leviticus, Ezra, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ephesians, Philippians and Colossians. That's a fact: Some people will find themselves, like Jonah in a jam, especially for not reading their Bible, or not knowing how to spell, like un-scientific Joshua who put pewter on instead of deuteron. O my dear! What a job! A "dia-head" is not the correct spelling for dead head. "Easy Kyle" is not Ezekiel. Habakkuk is not Haggai. Zephaniah is not Zechariah. And not all living that drink milk in our galaxy are Galatians. Only a corinthian smart-alecky golfer-pro verbs un-mentionable expletives and walks away with great lamentations. Truthfully, from answers we get, we admit, it usually takes a scholar, or a nut to see them at the worst. Some think, "Something in our genes is responsible for all our difficulties." At a fundraiser, the "Alpha Delta Phi" lemonade booth featured this puzzle and set a new record. The local paper, "The Chronicle" surveyed 200 people, and reported that this puzzle was very difficult. One revelation may help: Books like 1st 2nd Thessalonians, 1st 2nd Samuel and others have sequels with numbers. Also keep in mind that spelling but not punctuation and spacing in all books are normal. A chipper attitude will also help to compete really well. Finally, there is no need for a mad exodus. As Dani, electricians and Hanna humbly put it, "Bibles are lurking somewhere in every home. If you can't find them, please ask Timothy [3:16]."